

Dear future NIFAST partner;

I am a certified home inspector and providing home inspections to many of the homes that you are currently marketing/selling/renting. It is with great interest that I invite you to learn more about an important initiative that is occurring in our neighborhoods right now: the launch of the National Institute of Fire and Safety Training: www.nifast.org. I am a newly certified member of this organization, and would like to be the first to meet with your group of realtors on Tuesday morning to give a brief description of this important initiative.

NIFAST is a national association comprised of certified fire safety professionals, founded and operated by fire safety industry leaders. Organized to dramatically improve fire safety standards and results, NIFAST is emerging as the source of trusted fire safety standards and education. Through direct affiliations with those most affected by fire management issues, NIFAST is building reliability in standards, training and online testing.

NIFAST trains, tests, and certifies students, employees, property owners, managers, realtors, and inspectors in fire and life safety and compliance. It bridges the gaps left by NFPA, and furthers the criteria defined by government regulatory agencies. NIFAST's certifications are based on its various enhanced Fire Safety Standards and the associated training programs, which have a long and proven history of effectiveness.

NIFAST has a mission which our certified home inspector InterNACHI network proudly supports: to reduce loss of life, injury, and property damage due to fire. Our inspections are showing homeowners just how much education they are lacking about fire precautions, and more importantly, how they can outfit their home residence to become a NIFAST certified residence, which in turn, adds to the marketability of the property.

I would like to discuss more about the NIFAST program at your weekly realtor meetings on Tuesday morning. I will follow up in a few days to discuss this important initiative. Please visit NIFAST at www.nifast.org for further information, or contact me directly. Thank you in advance for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Joe Home Inspector
NIFAST/InterNACHI Certified Home Inspector
ABC Inspection Services